In the tradition of The Year of Magical Thinking comes a legendary editor's unflinching love song about his radiant wife, Margaret, and her battle with cancer. It was a warm April in Pleasant Valley when Margaret Korda, normally a fearless horsewoman, dropped her horsewhip while she was riding. Such a mild slip was easy to ignore, but when other troubling symptoms accumulated, she confided to her husband, "Michael, I think something serious is wrong with me." Within a few rapid weeks, the fiercely independent, former fashion model was diagnosed with brain cancer, while Michael, once reliant on her steeliness, became her caregiver, deciphering bewildering medical reports and packing her beloved toiletries for the hospital. An operation performed by a renowned surgeon allowed Margaret to ride her favorite competition horse Logan go Bragh a few more times, but Margaret's tumors quickly returned—leaving her to grapple with the reality of impending death. In rapturous prose, Korda, a modern-day Orpheus, braids her heroic story with heartrending details of their final year together. Passing, a tender memoir, is a testament to the transcendent possibilities of love.

Passing the Parcel is a multi-layered novel that, through its characters, put in diverse situations, questions the role of victims. Georgina, 37, married with two teenage daughters, feels unfulfilled personally, and searches within for the imaginative child she used to be. In her youthful play, she had believed she was two people: George, obedient and compliant, and Gina, her secret alter-ego who is fearless and yearns for adventure. Georgina is rooted in her childhood fiction, and having labeled herself 'the girl on the rug,' remains victim of the image she believes she conveys to the world. Enrolling on a Humanities degree course Georgina embarks on a journey of self-discovery, hopeful of being reunited with Gina. On her first day in college, a missing local girl's murdered body is discovered. Georgina becomes obsessed with the study of female victims, a fixation that begins to threaten her own family life. To escape her mounting problems she writes her own gothic novella, the story of Marie, a young governess in 1900, and her 4 charges.

Her life takes a new turn. Will these new experiences help Georgina gain a deeper understanding of her identity? About the Author: Dorothy Chandler Nelson was born in 1948 in Maghull, then a farming district ten miles from Liverpool. She moved to the Wigan area where she began writing fiction. In 1993 she obtained a B.A. Hons. Degree in Literature at the University of Bolton, where she currently teaches Creative Writing. She wrote her first novel, Shouting Back, as part of her Masters Degree at Edge Hill College, Ormskirk in Lancashire. Paris, leaving behind work, ailing parents and a proposal from her married lover. While there, Nicole chances upon an old photo of her father--lovingly inscribed, in his hand, to a woman Nicole has never heard of. What starts as a vacation for Nicole quickly becomes an investigation into her relationship to this mystery woman. Moving back and forth in time between the sparkling Paris of today and the jazz-fueled city filled with expatriates in the 1950s, PASSING LOVE is the story of two women dealing with love lost, secrets, and betrayal . . . and how the City of Lights may hold all of the answers.

Passing: A Memoir of Love and Death

The English Poets

A twist of Fate will turn her life upside down . . . It started out as just another ordinary day. Jessica Lund is on her way home from work when she suddenly notices a man sitting in the passenger seat of her car! But this is no ordinary man. Christopher Dunlap is arrogant, opinionated, and absolutely gorgeous. Unfortunately for Jessica's state of mind, he's also claiming to be an English nobleman--from 1812. Neither understands how Christopher, a man who'd been living a happy life nearly two hundred years in the past, is now flesh and blood in Jessica's present. But he's definitely real. And so are the feelings he inspires in Jessica. They soon share a love for each other as deep as it is dangerous, for they know that whatever brought them together could just as easily tear them apart.

The Food of Love

Love-letters of a Worldly Woman

ONE OF THE MOST LOVED NOVELS OF THE DECADE. A long-lost book reappears, mysteriously connecting an old man searching for his son and a girl seeking a cure for her widowed mother's loneliness. Leo Gursky taps his radiator each evening to let his upstairs neighbor know he's still alive. But it wasn't always like this: in the Polish village of his youth, he fell in love and wrote a book. Sixty years later and half a world away, fourteen-year-old Alma, who was named after a character in that book, undertakes an adventure to find her namesake and save her family. With virtuosic skill and soaring imaginative power, Nicole Krauss gradually draws these stories together toward a climax of "extraordinary depth and beauty" (Newsday).

The Etude

The True Christian Religion, Containing the Universal Theology of the New Church

Among stories so terrible they rend our hearts, so profound they touch the depths of our souls and so exalted they reach to heaven, none is more poignant than the Bible story of Abraham's sacrifice of his son, Isaac. A story revered by Jews, Christians and Muslims and turned over and over by great secular thinkers searching for meaning, this gripping tale shocks us into complete attention, then takes us - in nineteen short verses - on a roller coaster ride of emotion, challenge, and hope.

Once a Week

The Fall of Fort Sumter, Or, Love and War in 1860-61

The Man Booker Prize-winning author charts the efforts of a middle-aged brother and sister to begin a new life after their tyrannical mother's death (The New York Times). In Passing On, the richest and most rewarding of her novels, Penelope Lively applies her distinctive insight and consummate artistry to the story of an abusive and manipulative mother's legacy to her children (The Washington Post Book World). When Dorothy Glover dies, ending her reign of terror, siblings Helen and Edward Daimler, both middle-aged and unmarried, are left ill equipped to move forward and lead their own healthy, independent lives. But as time passes, the two slowly learn to accept what has been lost in their own lives and begin to embrace what can still be retrieved. Writing with both wit and compassion, Lively conjures up Edward and Helen's dilemmas with uncommon sympathy, immersing the reader in their concerns through her careful orchestration of emotional details.

“Passing On feels like real life drawn to scale, where private dreams dwarf the daily routine . . . The slow unfolding of secrets gives the book tension without melodrama.” —San Francisco Chronicle
